When Raccoons Become a Nuisance

Raccoons eat a variety of foods including insects, frogs, bird eggs, fruit, and garden vegetables, especially corn. Because of their ability to live in association with humans and their varied food preferences and denning habits, people often consider raccoons to be a nuisance. Raccoons may cause damage or nuisance problems around houses or outbuildings when they try to gain access to attics or chimneys or when they raid garbage in search of food. In extreme cases raccoons may tear off shingles or trim boards to gain access to attic or wall space. Barns are occasionally home to large numbers of raccoons.

Raccoons are excellent climbers and are very dexterous. They are most active at night, seeking refuge during the daylight hours in hollow trees, dense vegetation, rock crevices, old buildings, barns, chimneys, or other cavity spaces. During the winter months raccoons usually "den-up" for the coldest periods; this is not a true hibernation and they often venture out during warm spells.

Parasites and Diseases

Raccoons are host to a number of parasites and diseases that can infest people or pets, including canine distemper. Rabies is another concern although to date, no cases have been reported in Nova Scotian raccoons. Any raccoons exhibiting abnormal behavior should be avoided, and Natural Resources staff advised. Dead raccoons should be buried. Try not to touch the carcass, or wear disposable rubber gloves and wash well afterward. Department of Natural Resources 584-2229.

Heritage Homes and Neighbourhoods

This year the Heritage Canada Foundation announced "Heritage homes and neighbourhoods" as the 2013 theme for Heritage Day which is celebrated on the 3rd Monday in February -- this year February 18th. Together the Annapolis Heritage Society, the Annapolis Royal Historic Gardens, the Historical Association of Annapolis Royal and Parks Canada are planning a weekend-long programme of family activities and fascinating presentations to celebrate our remarkable built heritage. Whether indoors or outdoors, we think you'll find something to capture your interest! Stay tuned and watch for details of activities from February 15 to 18.

Attention drivers:

The new school zone speed 30 kms/hr is when children are present. If they are on the sidewalks or in the playground area they are present. This rule is in effect 24 hours a day 365 days a year. If children are in the school building they are not present and the speed limit is 50 kms/hr.

Historic Gardens Membership

For as low as $30 including tax, you can provide enjoyment to someone for the whole year – a gift of quiet and beautiful surroundings, of relaxing “me time”, of gardening how-to, and so much more! Maybe it’s a treat they would never consider buying themselves, but that will provide that downtime that they most desperately need. And of course you can feel good about supporting these wonderful Gardens in the process. Historic Gardens memberships may be purchased at the Historic Gardens during office hours, and at the Annapolis Royal Winter Farmer’s Market. Call 532-7018 or visit www.historicgardens.com.

WINTER MARKET AT THE HISTORIC GARDENS

EVERY SATURDAY 9:00 am-12:00 pm

Join us for our winter version of the Farmers’ Market at the Historic Gardens.

Lots of vendors will be on hand, with locally roasted coffee, baked goods, preserves, produce, fish, meat, eggs, cheese, yogurt, honey, hot foods, and lots more!

Town Hall Office Hours

Dr. Daurene Lewis

Town Hall continues to be open to the public everyday from 9:00am to 3:00pm and available by telephone contact from 8:30am to 4:30pm, Monday through Thursday.

Commencing February 8, 2013, Town Hall will not be open to the public on Fridays but staff can be contacted by telephone throughout the day from 8:30am to 4:30pm.

Closing to the public on Fridays is an effort to increase efficiencies and effectiveness to better serve the citizens and businesses of Annapolis Royal without increasing costs. The new office hours will be monitored throughout a three-month trial period.

MINISTER'S AWARDS FOR LEADERSHIP IN CRIME PREVENTION

Mayor Michael Tompkins and Councillors for the Town of Annapolis Royal along with past Council members, staff and citizens have expressed their sadness in learning that former Town Mayor, Dr Daurene Lewis passed away on Saturday, January 26, 2013.

Dr. Lewis's connection with the Town of Annapolis Royal is historic. Her great-great-great grandparents made their home here in 1783 and generations later, Daurene was born and raised in Annapolis Royal. In 1979, she was elected Town Councillor and in 1982 she was appointed Deputy Mayor. In 1984, she was elected Mayor of the Town of Annapolis Royal – the first black female to be elected mayor in Canada.

The flag at Town Hall is being flown at half mast out of respect for Daurene. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her and our sympathies go out to her family.

I am very pleased to inform you that the Department of Justice has just announced the 2013 call for nominations of the Annual Minister's Awards for Leadership in Crime Prevention.

Nominations are now being accepted for the 2013 Minister's Awards for Leadership in Crime Prevention. The awards recognize people and organizations that demonstrate leadership in projects or community service that can help prevent crime; and business leaders and media, police officers and youth, community groups and individuals can be nominated for the award. The call for nominations is open until midnight, February 10, 2012.

The Department of Justice is accepting nominations in six categories: -- individual: -- youth (age 21 or under): -- community group or organization: -- policing: -- media: -- business community.

More information can be found on our website at: <http://gov.ns.ca/just/>

The nomination forms themselves can be found at: http://novascotia.ca/just/CP_awards/

We hope to see as many worthy Nova Scotian individuals and organizations as possible nominated for these awards.
