WHAT'S UP ANNAPOLIS?

Well it is a new year and winter is upon us. It is that time of year when resolutions have been made (and perhaps already broken) and Mother Nature is about to unleash her worst side. This doesn't mean that we have to hibernate for the next few months though. The Annapolis Royal Recreation Department will be hosting guided snowshoe treks and launching a wintertime activity club (see page 4 for details). In addition, there are still a plethora of fitness and activities at the Academy gym to keep you occupied throughout the winter.

Coming soon: pay by credit card!

Early into the new year the Town will be offering a VISA and Mastercard payment option on water bills and tax bills. This service will be provided by Paymentus. The cost of using this payment option is user pay driven with Paymentus charging a fee that is 1.75% of your utility or tax bill. Further details will be upcoming.

Happy New Year!

MAYOR'S MESSAGE

As the end of 2017 drew near, I was asked several times how the Town of Annapolis Royal could possibly outdo itself after a year of remarkable events in 2017. By any measure, 2017 was a remarkable year - as the Town of Annapolis Royal celebrated the 150th Anniversary of Confederation in grand style: an inspiring Canada Day sit down dinner of lobster rolls for 500 people on the Town Wharf; an emotional swearing-in ceremony for fifty new Canadians at Fort Anne National Historic Site - celebrating its own one hundredth anniversary last year; and who could ever forget the image of thousands of people gathered along our waterfront as the Tall Ships of Rendez-Vous 2017, led by the iconic Bluenose II, sailed past Annapolis Royal. If these wonderful events told us anything, it's that this town in partnership with others is capable of truly incredible things. On that very point, one of the highlights of last year was the completion of the waterfront amphitheater project in partnership with Bear River First Nation - bringing together our two communities in a renewal of the historic bond of friendship between the Mi'kmaq and the French explorers who established Port Royal in 1605.

The mutual respect and trust forged by this partnership may be the project's most important legacy. As it is our relationships - social, economic, and political - that ultimately determine and define the quality of life in our communities. Rest assured that Town Council and staff are working to ensure that 2018 will have plenty of its own memorable moments, with the contributions of supportive citizens and businesses, and tireless community volunteers.

COMMUNITY

Food Bank News

The Annapolis Area Food Bank will remain in the newly renovated Academy building (enter from Ritchie Street). At the beginning of the year we have 107 "families" registered for assistance, with the largest category being single men. In 2017 we provided food for 885 people - 622 adults and 263 children. This is not a large number compared to some of the large HRM Food Banks, but it reflects the level of need in our catchment area. We serve our clients on the second and third Wednesday evenings of each month, and we always have enough food on hand thanks to the wonderful generosity of our community and the co-operation of Feed Nova Scotia. We are proud that we distribute wholesome and nutritious items.

You can make food donations at the town grocery stores, at the Town Hall, or at your church. Don't forget other staples like toilet paper, paper towels, soap, etc. Cash donations are always welcome and needed, because we do purchase meat and fresh vegetables. If you'd like to donate money, make your cheque payable to "Annapolis Area Food Bank" and mail to Box 341, Annapolis Royal NS, B0S 1A0. Enquiries about volunteering or emergencies can be directed to Heather LeFort at 902-532-5572.

Provincial Funding Announcement

Small Businesses in Nova Scotia will be able to provide greater accessibility and grow their operations as part of government's commitment of an inclusive province for all Nova Scotians. A new $1 million Small Business ACCESS-Ability Program has been launched. The Provincial program will provide funding to eligible business for improvements in information and communication such as accessible signage, public transportation, education and training, assistive devices for disabled employees and customers, and renovations for ramps, accessible washrooms and door openers.

Did you know that the NS flag was not made official until 2014? A slip-up meant that it had never been sworn in until that point.

COMMUNITY

Peace Pole

Have you recently driven past the United Church in Annapolis Royal, at the traffic lights, and wondered what the brightly painted sign post was all about? Well, read on and we will tell you all about it!

The post, called a Peace Pole, was painted by the children who attend a family-focused group at the United Church called Messy Church. The children were given free reign to paint whatever they wished on the pole and it expresses both their personal interests and their creativity. Even the adults in attendance joined in the activity and added their artistic contributions to the pole as well.

A message of peace, "May peace prevail on earth", in four different languages, is painted on each of the signs. The English and Mi'kmaq signs were painted by local artist Ted Lind. Mi'kmaq language teacher, Rose Meuse, provided the translation. The French sign was painted by local artist Giselle Beauchamp. The Arabic sign was painted by Ikhlass Hassan Hagggar, a member of the Sudanese family brought to Annapolis Royal, through community sponsorship, from a refugee camp in Chad.

Now you may be wondering, just what is a "peace pole"? A Peace Pole is an internationally recognized symbol of the hopes and dreams of the entire human family, standing vigil in silent prayer for peace on earth. There are tens of thousands of Peace Poles in nearly every country in the world, dedicated as monuments to peace. Now Annapolis Royal has one of our own.

When we put the Peace Pole on the lawn of the church, everyone in attendance was invited to place a stone on the stand to help secure it in place. If you are out for a walk in town, you are most welcome to bring along a little stone to add to the pile and to offer your own personal prayer for peace. If you notice the sign while you are driving by, or you are waiting at the traffic light for a few moments, you can join us in our longing for peace by adding your own private prayer.

Parks Canada Winter News

We hope that you will enjoy the fortifications of Fort Anne this winter. We do ask that you continue to keep your pet on a leash and use the pet waste bags provided to aid the clean-up. Just a reminder that the pathways are not maintained in winter.

Best wishes for a happy new year.

Lions News

The Lions Clubs International Foundation (LCIF)---the Annapolis Royal Lions Club joins with the Lions throughout the world in celebrating Lions Clubs International Foundation Week from January 7th-13th, which marks the accomplishments of Lions in the areas of sight, youth, disaster relief and humanitarian service. Over 13,000 grants have been approved which equates to over $1 billion US. This includes a grant to Dalhousie University on behalf of the Nova Scotia Lions for the purchase of equipment to repair used hearing aids for recycling to those who cannot afford new aids. This joint project between the University, Lions, and the Nova Scotia Government went into operation this year.

On January 13th we will honour the founder of the Lions, Melvin Jones, with a special tribute on his birthday. The Annapolis Royal Lions will hold our monthly business meeting January 8th with our annual donation to the fund. From January 8th-14th, the Club will also be promoting the Lions Worldwide Week of Service to fight hunger. A donation will be made to support this worthy effort. The Annapolis Royal Lions Club will host its regular monthly dinner meeting on Monday, January 22 at 7 pm at the Annapolis Royal Fire Hall. Come early for the social at 6:30 pm. Those interested in attending should contact President Peter Sleight by Friday, January 19: 902-532-2946 or by email at petersleight@eastlink.ca.

GET MOVIN'

Here's what's happening in the Town of Annapolis Royal to help keep you active, healthy, and happy...

Steve Nash Girls Youth Basketball at the Academy Gym

The Steve Nash Youth Basketball Program is coming to Annapolis Royal this winter! The program will be for girls aged 10-13, and run Saturday mornings from January 20th to March 3rd (exact time TBD). This is a great opportunity for girls to build their skills and game play. No experience playing basketball is required. The program is for girls who want to learn the game and develop confidence in the sport. This program is FREE thanks to generous funding by the Sport Nova Scotia Sport Fund, and includes some AWESOME Steve Nash Basketball gear! There are 16 spots available, and registration is first come first served. To register, please call 902-955-1205, or email alc@annapolisroyal.com.

Annapolis Royal Winter Activity Club

A new activity club is forming in Annapolis Royal for those who are interested in taking part in informal, impromptu "meet-up" style activities on weekends. Participants in this club will be able to propose weekend winter activities, both outdoors and at the Academy gym, and communicate via an email mailing list. This is a great way to stay active and motivated by others this winter, as well as plan events based on the unpredictable realities of current weather conditions. To learn more, or sign up and join the mailing list, please call 902-955-1205, or email alc@annapolisroyal.com.

CHIEF'S CORNER

As we move into 2018 and leave 2017 behind, I am reminded of many past experiences and memories. No one really knows what the new year will bring but one thing I do know is that whatever comes your way there are always people who are willing to help you celebrate the good times or grieve with you in the bad times – you are never alone. If you are suffering from Mental Illness or know someone who is, you can call The Annapolis Valley Crisis Response Line (Monday - Friday between 8:30 to 4:30) at 1-855-273-7110 or the Nova Scotia Mental Health Crisis Line (24 hours) at 1-888-429-8167.

I also can't help thinking how fortunate we are to live in such a great community, province, and country - a free and democratic society.

Fundamental to our democratic society is the ability to speak up when we don't agree with something as long as it is done in a peaceful manner, which includes being respectful to one another. This is also why we have the right to due process. We will not always agree with each other, so we use the democratic process to debate and make decisions that are best for the good of our citizens. This is also known as responsible government and the rule of law. I have served abroad in many places that do not have our system and have seen the suffering that comes without it.

Based on the rule of law, the members of the Annapolis Royal Police Department are sworn to protect and serve the citizens of this great community. They are also sworn to assist, as required, in a policing capacity that may bring them outside of Annapolis Royal, which is why they are given Provincial Police Officer status. With this comes the responsibility and requirement to be trained and equipped to a level that is consistent with provincial guidelines and other agencies that we may be called upon to assist.

Please have a safe and wonderful new year!

Planning & Heritage in Annapolis Royal

Municipal Registered Heritage Properties and Insurance

Recently the Planning & Heritage Advisory Committee has received questions and concerns regarding insuring a Municipal registered property. If you have any questions please contact the Insurance Bureau of Canada, ibc.ca or toll free 1-844-227-5422. They have information for the homeowner on heritage properties on this website and great brochure, <http://assets.ibc.ca/Documents/Brochures/Heritage-Properties.pdf>. As with all insurance it is best to shop around.

Heritage Properties on Website

This October the Town added a listing of the Municipal Registered properties on our website, <https://annapolisroyal.com/heritage-properties/>. When the program started in the 1980's not all properties had a listing of the character defining elements or the historic/heritage value of the property. This year the Planning & Heritage Advisory Committee has decided to finish all the properties and update the information on our website. The process will probably take 6-12 months to complete. If you have any questions please contact Sandi Millett-Campbell at phmc@annapolisroyal.com or 902-532-3145.
