

Town of Annapolis Royal Mayor Candidates

AMERY BOYER

Amery Boyer, B.Mus, MBA, came to Annapolis Royal in 2002 and served as Chief Administrative Officer until 2012. She currently operates a private business that offers human resource services, management and administrative services, as well as music instruction, seniors' fitness and aquafit classes. Over the years, she has served as a comprehensive auditor for Veterans' Affairs in PEI, and Director of Human Resources and Chief Negotiator for Metro Transit, the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission, and the former City of Halifax. Her international work includes municipal human resources consulting on behalf of the Federation of Canadian Municipalities in Guyana, and the Toronto firm IBI Group in Trinidad and Tobago. Amery is fluently bilingual in English and in French. She is a Past President of the Annapolis Board Trade and currently President of Friends of the Library. She also serves as church organist for the three Baptist churches in the local area.

WILLIAM (BILL) MACDONALD

Bill MacDonald attended the Annapolis Royal Regional Academy in the 1960's; taking early retirement in 2012 to return to his beloved Annapolis Royal, after a lifetime of public and community service focused on social justice issues. That has served him well as our current Mayor - working with Council to ensure an inclusive, vital, and prosperous community. Bill's term as mayor has resulted in major strides forward in building regional and provincial relationships, and raising the Town's profile to get the national recognition it deserves. In addition to serving as our full-time mayor, Bill's skill and expertise was contracted by the Privy Council to assist the National Inquiry into Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women & Girls. Bill cares deeply about the future of our community, and wants everyone to prosper and build upon our remarkable quality of life - moving forward together as families, friends, and neighbours.
