After a great though wet Natal Day weekend, the August 16 weekend was another busy one with Paint the Town going on, the market, as well as two Acadian family reunions as part of the World Acadian Congress. The Municipality of the County of Annapolis also held its first Acadian event with the public unveiling of an interpretive panel. On August 14, the Municipality of the County of Annapolis, in cooperation with the Fédération Acadienne de la Nouvelle-Écosse (FANE), unveiled an interpretive sign dedicated to Joseph- Broussard dit Beausoleil at the Hebb's Landing Park and Boat Launch at Upper Granville, NS. It is in this region that Joseph- Broussard dit Beausoleil was born in a place called Port-Royal, near the shores of the Annapolis River, once called the River Dauphine. This event was the County's first public event to mark Acadian history in our area. On August 28, a second sign dedicated to the Gaudet Village will be unveiled in Bridgetown which was formerly known as Village des Gaudet in the 17th and 18th centuries. And on August 27, from 1:00 to 3:00 pm, Mapannapolis, Parks Canada and the County of Annapolis will be featuring displays, music and story telling at Fort Anne on the vibrant history of Acadie. Thanks to all who displayed flags this August to help support the Acadian celebrations this year!

Mayor Amery Boyer,
B. Mus., MBA

Mapannapolis, Parks Canada and the County of Annapolis celebrated Charles Fort on August 20, 2024 at Fort Anne where the Nova Scotia Charter of 1621 now resides. A group of about 70 Scottish settlers began a colony here in 1629, eight years after King James I granted 'Nova Scotia' to Sir William Alexander. Led by Alexander's son, the Scots built a small fort, the remains of which lie beneath Fort Anne. Despite many deaths during the first winter, the surviving colonists thrived on agriculture, fishing, and trade with the Mi'kmaq. Most returned to Great Britain in 1632 after France reacquired the region by treaty. Although the colonization attempt was short-lived, the Province of Nova Scotia owes its name, flag, and coat of arms to this early Scottish settlement.

As people prepare for municipal elections this fall, there is an old adage that "people who don't vote are destined to be governed by those who do". A good voter turnout is just one sign of a healthy community and the Town has made it very easy for you to vote. So please make plan about when and how you choose to vote.

On September 21, 2024, you are invited to join Parks Canada and the Acadian Odyssey Commission as they unveil the Acadian monument commemorating Fort Anne as a deportation site. The monument commemorates the 250th Anniversary of the Deportation called Le grand dérangement (the Great Upheaval).

On behalf of Council and staff, we hope that you enjoy the rest of this beautiful summer!

Grant Potter Memorial Park and Playground Revitalization Update - Summer 2024

Great news regarding the playground revitalization project. After a year and a half of fundraising and grant applications, the project is now moving forward based on the funds received with construction set to begin in mid September 2024! This will include the installation of a new hill slide, swing set, spiral climbing carousel, path excavation and repair, drainage, seating, and impact surfacing. All redesigned elements feature features and elements that consider accessibility, safety, and inclusion. The newly revitalized park will truly have something for everyone.

Along with the Federal Accessibility funding for $59,000 received in the early spring of 2024, we have received an additional grant from the Province of Nova Scotia Dept. of Communities, Culture, Tourism & Heritage for $50,000! This total along with local fundraising, commitment from Town Council, and Public Works' time and talents gets us very close to our goal. We are still fundraising to complete an additional feature that is a small boat for younger kids that includes a fun play space with sensory activities, chalkboard, and games, as well as some miscellaneous fun features for the park like a kit of loose parts and a toddler/infant-specific swing.

To make a donation, please visit the link below. At the time of this writing, we have $3075 donated which is AMAZING, but there's still a way to go so we can do this entire project this fall! All donations will be applied directly to this playground project. Thanks for your support for this all-ages facility and recreation activities in the Town!

Information on Beech Leaf Mining Weevil

The Town is now dealing with a relatively new pest that is feeding on the leaves of beech trees. The Town of Annapolis Royal is home to several large beech trees (these are European beech – fagus sylvatica).

Unfortunately, repeated damage of the foliage leads to severe weakening and probable death of the tree. There is an injection that will help the tree and is done in April. Some beech tree owners have opted for saving their trees and booked an injection. This can be done through Brian and Cathy Phelan scotiahorticulture@gmail.com. They are very knowledgeable and can answer all the questions and give a quote.

National FASD Awareness Day

Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD) is a diagnosis identifying a range of lifelong, neurodevelopmental and full-body health irregularities resulting from a fetus being exposed to alcohol during pregnancy. Fetal Alcohol Nova Scotia (FANS) is a grassroots, not-for-profit organization dedicated to promoting healthy pregnancies and advocating for best outcomes for those living with FASD in Nova Scotia.

September is National Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder Awareness Month, with September 9 designated as National FASD) day. FANS is a network of individuals, families, caregivers living with Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder, and supporting professionals. We invite you to join us to raise awareness about FASD.

The Canadian Centre on Substance Use and Addiction identified that 78% of Nova Scotians drink alcohol, often at rates often defined as either dangerous or hazardous. Further, drinking patterns put fetal and infant health at risk in terms of life-long brain injury, birth defects, behavioural problems, learning disabilities and other health problems including FASD. (Canadian Centre on Substance Use and Addiction, 2023). Statistics indicate that 4% of Nova Scotians have FASD numbering approximately 40,000. FASD is the leading cause of developmental disability in Canada. (Public Health Agency of Canada, 2005). To provide some perspective on these numbers, this is more than Autism, Down Syndrome, Cerebral Palsy, and Tourette Syndrome all combined, yet it is largely unrecognized in Nova Scotia. It is 2.5 times the prevalence of Autism alone.

Because of poor Executive Functioning, typical of people with FASD, they often become involved with Social Services, Judicial & Corrections institutions, and health services. These and education facilities often use outdated and inappropriate remedies for people with FASD causing frustration for the individual and professional. Due to life-long complex care issues, the cost of health services to this population is ongoing and expensive when compared to the rest of the population. (Lutke, 2017). These people make up a large segment of the population in principal's offices, courts, correctional facilities, homelessness encampments, hospitals, and social service agencies.

People with FASD can reach their full potential with life-long supports and a network of trained and caring professionals. Join the discussion. Visit our website at fasdns.ca or email us at fetalalcoholnovascotia@gmail.com
