

Garth Lescaudron

I was born here in Annapolis Royal and raised in the nearby community of Port Royal. With a long career as a chef, I have worked with many local businesses, even briefly running my own. I am passionate about giving back to my beloved town, which is why I am running for Town Council. I aim to improve community engagement and local infrastructure, advocating for increased public garbage cans, playground improvements and enhanced accessibility. Alongside my political aspirations, I have a deep appreciation for local history and actively support local initiatives and events. A passionate reenactor, I enjoy bringing history to life through participation in various community events. Committed to making a difference, I dedicate my time to volunteering, embodying the spirit of community involvement and fostering connections with others who share my interests.
